CyberSon

Cyberson, is still very much, my alter ego. A solo electronic music project, based in the quite musical town of Stourbridge, England. Many years ago, in the early 1990′s to be precise, CyberSon produced more commercial orientated electro dance music.

Nowadays, CyberSon focusses much more on the heavier, experimental side of electronic music, fusing cinematic, industrial elements with big beats and somewhat darker synths, albeit trying to keep some hold on melody that is relevant today.

I want to create / produce music that may not be considered ”popular”to listen to, but is still enjoyed and relevant to people. It’ s fair to say that I feel alive with my music and enjoy working within an environment without boundaries. I don’ t have an agenda with my work, however, I do draw a great deal of influence from the inner self. But then, CyberSon can be about big beats and awesome synths.

Recently, I have been able to work with some totally awesome musicians from around the world. When I am ready to post the work, I will naturally point you in the direction of the talent that I have worked with! I really do love and admire people who just follow their musical dreams.

I love listening to all sorts of music of any genre. My vast music collection includes rock, metal, reggae, classical, industrial, rap, spiritual..... well I think you get the picture.

I look forward to spending time with you all.
